15th CANBERRA INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL
Wednesday 26 October – Sunday 6 November 2011
Canberrans are keen movie goers and have high participation rates in the arts and culture so it is with great enthusiasm that we look forward to the Canberra International Film Festival each year. The Festival plays a major role in the arts and festival calendar of the ACT and has become one of Canberra’s signature events in the heart of the city.

This is the 15th annual Canberra International Film Festival, with the 12-day program showcasing 58 extraordinary films from 26 countries. Each of the films will be Canberra premieres with about one third being Australian.

Canberra is also home to a small but thriving film industry which continues to grow and develop through the support of the ACT Government and our business community. The Festival provides an opportunity for all Canberrans to engage with international and national filmmakers, emerging filmmakers, industry guests and film lovers. It is also designed to foster the collaboration and creative development of local filmmakers as well as the broader community of Canberra’s artists.

For artists, film offers unique opportunities for the expression and cross-collaboration of literature, visual and performing arts. For audiences, it is able to both reflect and enrich the diverse lives and experiences of those that inhabit the vibrant multicultural city of Canberra.

The ACT Government is a proud supporter of the Festival and recognises the important role it plays in engaging Canberra and the region with the arts. From 26 October to 6 November I encourage all of you to immerse yourselves in the Festival experience and enjoy the unique showcase of films brought to you from around the globe.

As major sponsor of the 15th Canberra International Film Festival, TransACT is proud to support this iconic and exciting Canberra event. This year’s line-up is set to impress again with a range of great films in store. The Canberra International Film Festival is a wonderful showcase of international and Australian filmmaking talent and one that we are lucky to have on our local calendar. It’s a fantastic event and each year we eagerly await the program. We are thrilled to see that yet again Canberra and the region will have the opportunity to see some of the best filmmaking from every corner of the planet – a true international event on our own doorstep.

This year marks our fourth year as the major sponsor of this event and we’re excited that we can again celebrate the film industry with the Canberra community. We urge all of you to come and see the remarkable variety of films on offer throughout the event. There is no other festival quite like it and we are pleased to be the Principal Partner and to be associated with the Canberra International Film Festival.

As a local organisation with local staff, it’s incredibly important to us to be involved with and support our community. TransACT supports more than 50 organisations in the arts, charity, sporting, and business sectors in the ACT and throughout regional Victoria.

We hope that you enjoy this event and remember that you can extend your entertainment experience after the Festival with TransACT’s pay TV services. Subscribers to TransACT pay TV can add on our Movie Package to unlock a world of movies from Movie One, Movie Two, Movie Extra and Movie Greats – the perfect solution for movie buffs wanting the latest entertainment all year round.

We look forward to enjoying the 15th Canberra International Film Festival with you.
Welcome to the 15th Canberra International Film Festival (CIFF) – Canberra’s signature film event that is so eagerly anticipated each year – and this year is no exception. With extraordinary films from fascinating countries we are in line for another visual feast filled with the most amazing stories. I urge all of you to join us in this cinematic celebration – or should I say just join me and indulge!

The range is diverse – from films about highly charged characters through to up close and intimate with the lives of some of the most celebrated people of our times. I am thrilled to see some family films not to mention a comedy or two, as well as and in contrast to some deep, dark dramas. From Madness & Mayhem to the breathtaking beauties from Out of Africa, to the power of love in A Touch of Desire. New this year at the fabulous Arc Cinema is Can’t Stop the Music – a celebration of song and dance and classic favourites.

None of this would be possible without the support and belief in CIFF by the ACT Government backed by corporate Canberra, who combined, have enormous appreciation of the worth of cultural exchange and the value of artistic events.

The 2011 Festival would not be possible without our Principal Partner TransACT, along with our founding partner, the University of Canberra. Both are a strong and valued relationships. Together, with our many other valued corporate, cultural and media partners, we continue to grow and be the success that the film buff’s of the capital have come to expect. I would also like to acknowledge the newly formed strategic partnership with Centenary 100 – we very much look forward to working with you in showcasing Canberra on this significant birthday.

We are indeed fortunate to work with each and every one of our sponsors and business partners in bringing this much-devoured event to Canberra and, on behalf of the 14,000 plus people who will sit in front of the big screens this year, I thank you for your foresight and vision in bringing this event to life.

To my fellow Board members, co-ordinators and the many generous volunteers – my sincere thanks on a huge effort, your dedication and of course your valuable time. I look forward to seeing you ‘at the movies’!

I see some wonderful and interesting characters as I sit back and ponder this year’s festival program – from French tomboys and Japanese chefs, to Norwegian troll hunters and unlikely heroes from the back blocks of London. It is of course always the characters that draw us into storytelling – and whether they are real, like Australia’s Chad Morgan, or totally and deliciously fictitious (and there are plenty of those!) there’s nothing quite like seeing and feeling another view of the world through their eyes and their actions.

It’s once again an honour to present the line up for the festival – with the best cinema from around the world, that also includes a celebration of music at the National Film & Sound Archive. In addition, there is a collection of breathtaking films from Africa – a continent with a rich storytelling tradition but often under-represented on the big-screen.

I’m also thrilled that the Opening Night Film for 2011 is RESTLESS and showcases the extraordinary talents of Mia Wasikowska – a Canberra actor who continues to shine on the world stage. Similarly, I am excited to have secured SCORE: AN ICE-HOCKEY MUSICAL starring our very own Olivia Newton-John, as a special closing night event at the Arc Cinema.

My thanks again to the University of Canberra for their ongoing support and commitment as CIFF’s founding partner. It is their generous contribution that allows me to take part in the Cannes Film Festival each year, a vital aspect in the programming of this festival. My thanks also to all of our treasured sponsors and partners who are invaluable in assisting us to bring this unique event to you each year.

You have 12 days to join us – at the Dendy or the National Film & Sound Archive and even one screening at the National Gallery of Australia. Come along and discover some of the most inspiring, charming, naughty and downright astonishing characters you’ll ever find on the big screen.

I hope you enjoy as many films as you can and please let us know what you think of them, either on our website or just catch up with me in the foyer. See you there, and welcome to the 15th Canberra International Film Festival.

The Centenary of Canberra is opening a new window on our unique national capital. At the heart of the nation, Canberra is an incubator, a high achiever and custodian of our nation’s assets in science, democracy and culture. Offering in intriguing mix of local, regional, national and international engagement, Canberra will celebrate its first 100 years in a 12 month program of events that cover the spectrum of sport, science, arts, community, architecture, environment, diverse cultures and big ideas.

The Centenary of Canberra revels in the energy, passion and determination that gave a new nation a new capital, and rekindles that spirit for the 21st century.

Anytime in 2013 will be a great time to re-visit and re-imagine your national capital.

All you need...

in the City

There are many things to experience in the City. Whether your needs are practical or leisurely, you don’t have to look far. With the largest range of fashion stores in Canberra, you can be sure to satisfy your retail desires. Pick up the grocery essentials at one of the food markets where you will find quality produce. You may choose to pamper yourself at an award winning hair salon, or treat yourself at a day spa. When hunger holds sway, indulge yourself in the widest selection of fine restaurants and cafes Canberra has to offer, and chances are you may also enjoy a little entertainment while you are there. After dark, you can either step out to see a movie or a show at the theatre, or dance the night away at the many night clubs and bars on offer.

One thing is for certain — whatever you needs — you can find it in the City.

Corinne is born into a tightly knit religious community where faith is the accepted way of life. A thoughtful independent child, Corinne grows into an intelligent and graceful woman who is forced to rethink the role of her religion when life doesn’t seem to provide the joys that childhood promised. Farmiga not only directs this story with extreme care but turns in stunningly empathetic performance as a woman shaken by a crisis of disbelief.

With Canberra actor Mia Wasikowska in the lead, this is a delicate, tender and quirky story of two people finding love amongst death.

Enoch is a young man who likes going to funerals. Eccentrically morbid, his only friend is Hiroshi – the ghost of a WWII Kamikaze pilot – until he meets Annabel. And, although she is being treated for cancer, she is smart and adorable, an independent spirit and student of nature. The two form an instant bond, dealing in their own idiosyncratic ways with the challenges of life, love and death.

"a gently moving hymn to life ... Wasikowska anchors the film with another charismatic performance."

SCORE: AN ICE-HOCKEY MUSICAL

2010/35mm/92mins

Come and party as the festival closes with a hilarious, over-the-top, and deliberately cheesy musical about ice hockey, team sports and romance. In true GLEE style, this will get your toes tapping and your skates rattling! Australia’s own Olivia Newton-John stars as a hippy mum who has home schooled her son Farley – who happens to be a sensation with the puck. When he’s spotted by an ice-hockey talent scout, he has to deal with playing team sports for the first time, and being dragged away from girl next door Eve. And how will pacifist Farley deal with the fighting that is all part of the game in the big league?

WE NEED TO TALK ABOUT KEVIN

2011/35mm/112mins

This cinematic masterpiece sees Tilda Swinton give a truly breathtaking performance as a mother torn apart by the conflicting emotions she feels for her son and his irredeemable actions.

Based on the best-selling novel by Lionel Shriver about a couple and the psychological torture they endure with the arrival of their dysfunctional son, Kevin. British director Lynne Ramsay creates an intriguing, complex and slowly devastating masterpiece. Alternating between a present loaded with guilt and a past full of frustration, Ramsay slowly unfolds the truth about what Kevin has done and, with it, spins a cinematic vision of contemporary hell around Swinton’s mesmerising performance.

THURSDAY 27 OCTOBER 6.00 PM – DENDY
A chilling and deeply moving tale of a violent working-class man who forms an unlikely relationship with a middle-class do-gooder.

Joseph – like the beast in the film’s title – seems highly destructive, barely able to contain an inner rage that threatens to destroy himself and anyone in his path. When he stumbles out-of-control into a charity clothing shop one day, he meets Hannah, who, on the surface, seems a most unlikely saviour. But slowly we come to realise that these two souls have more in common than meets the eye. Director Paddy Considine extracts incredible performances from his cast in a powerful and gritty tale that doesn’t pull any punches as it builds to a surprising conclusion.

FRIDAY 28 OCTOBER  8.15 pm – DENDY

This beautiful and delicate exploration of gender and sexuality follows a young girl who decides to pass herself off as a boy in order to make new friends.

When ten-year-old Laure moves into a new neighbourhood outside Paris, the local kids mistake her for a boy. Rather than correct the misunderstanding – and to help make her way into the new group of friends – she decides to pass herself off as Mikael, a ruse that becomes increasingly difficult to sustain, especially as she starts to win the affection of another girl. With help from an astonishing central performance by newcomer Zoe Heran, director Celine Sciamma focuses her naturalistic storytelling on the world of the children, using their rituals and naiveties to point to the prejudices that lie ahead in the adult world.

AUSTRALIAN PREMIERE

This award-winning tale of a teenager trying to stay on track despite being bullied at school and neglected at home is a compassionate and nail-biting portrait of a complex young man.

Sebbe is fifteen and lives alone in a tiny apartment with his unreliable mother, trying his best to do the right thing. Bullied at school, his escape from reality is to visit the local junkyard where he scavenges for electrical and mechanical objects to repair and recycle. As he comes under increasing emotional pressure from all sides, he realises that he can only rely on his own misguided instincts.

First time writer/director Babak Najafi creates a haunting, tender and highly empathetic study of a young man forced to grow up too quickly.

2011/35mm/87mins

AUSTRALIAN PREMIERE

Unsentimental, powerful and surprising, this gem of realist filmmaking centres on a young boy who won’t give up the search for the father who has rejected him.

They have won the Palme d’Or twice with their special brand of compassionate realism, and this latest film from Belgian filmmaking brothers Jean-Pierre and Luc Dardenne is one of their best. It follows an abandoned 11-year-old boy in a determined search for his father. Placed in a children’s home with only a bike and an address where his father once lived, Cyril sets out – pursued by authorities – to find the man he believes must love him. Relentlessly obstinate, Cyril attaches himself to a caring hairdresser who tries her best to help him navigate the pain of parental rejection.

A TOUCH OF DESIRE

Complex drama, a touch of science-fiction and some comedy – with characters motivated by the power of love.

One of the most lyrically moving films of the year, Ewan McGregor and Eva Green search for love as the world is threatened by a mysterious epidemic.

Michael (Ewan McGregor) is a chef in an up-market restaurant and Susan (Eva Green) is a medical researcher. Although he doesn’t usually stick around in relationships, he sees something special in Susan and they start a passionate affair. But, as an apocalyptic sickness descends on the planet, their relationship is tested beyond the limits of endurance. Dark and beautiful, strange and moody – David MacKenzie explores the human condition in a strikingly original dystopian romance.

A delightful hit on the festival circuit, this comic love-triangle follows the antics of two couples who live within a snowball's throw of each other's bedrooms.

Kaja hopes for romantic and sexual bliss in her marriage but her husband is more interested in hunting. When a good-looking couple move in next door and handsome Sigve takes an interest in Kaja, the result warms up the wintery temperatures, revealing secrets, lies and desires that have lain dormant for years. A warm-hearted farce with a delightful performance from Agnes Kittelsen as the quirky Kaja, this is a sharply written and well observed comedy of adult relationships.

This powerful drama is about an expatriate woman searching for meaning on a Carribean island in the 1970s.

Sonia has stayed back home with her young son and daughter to take care of her ageing mother while her husband Jo has taken a new job in the oil fields of Trinidad. When she finally moves the family to join him, she finds the adjustment to expatriate life strangely difficult. Stuck in a kind of limbo where she has no apparent role, she befriends experienced expat Charlotte who has some difficult insights into the lifestyle. A powerful drama with an emphasis on performances, this award-winning film is set against the stunning backdrop of life in the Carribean in the 1970's.

This delicate and sensual love story set in 1960s Japan and based on the bestselling novel by Haruki Murakami is a stunning visual experience.

As Tokyo erupts into chaos with the student rebellions of the 1960s, two close friends – Watanabe and Naoko – contemplate their future, joined as much by a deep personal loss as they are by their long-term bonds of friendship. Unable to find solace elsewhere they start an affair but it too fails to overcome their strong sense of melancholia. As Noako drifts towards psychological breakdown in a remote healing centre, Watanabe returns to Tokyo where he falls for a fellow student – the free-spirited Midori. French-Vietnamese filmmaker Anh Hung Tran creates a slowly sliding and moody drama about forbidden love, infidelity and loss.

THE BANG BANG CLUB

The incredible true story of four photographers who risked their lives and their sanity to snap some of the most powerful images of the decade.

As the curtain came down on apartheid in South Africa in the 1990s, the country was wracked by brutality and violence, struggling towards the first free elections of a new era. Photographer Greg Marinovich – played in the film by Ryan Phillippe – teamed up with three other photographers to cover the tribal fighting that took place between Inkartha and ANC supporters in the Soweto townships, with peace-keepers unable to do much more than pick up the bodies. Director Steven Silver mixes gritty recreations of the action with accounts of the personal lives of the four men.

BLUE BIRD

2011/35mm/86mins AUSTRALIAN PREMIERE

An exquisite blend of arthouse and traditional storytelling, this dreamlike fantasy is about two children looking for a bird on the stunning plains of Togo.

Based loosely on Belgian novelist Maurice Maeterlinck’s classic 1909 story, director Gust Van Den Berghe turns a simple journey of brother and sister setting out on the road in search of a bird, into a magical folk tale. Immersed in a blue tinged world, the children leave their village only to meet the ghosts of their grandparents, the gods and spirits of the land, and a captivating collection of ‘unborn’ children (all wearing strange hats!). With the most delicate cinematography and through a series of charming incidents, the film explores themes of innocence, ritual, and the passing of time on the plains of Africa.

A dark and devastating portrayal of repression, torment and obsessive desire.

Francois lives a carefully controlled, if somewhat loveless married life with two children and a tidy house in Bloomfontein, South Africa. Yet for all his white, middle-class, well-meaning values, his life is thrown into utter disarray when he becomes totally infatuated with the 23-year-old son of a family friend. One of the most talked about films at this year’s Cannes Film Festival, where it screened in the prestigious Un Certain Regard section, director Oliver Hermanus sets the film from its memorable first scene as an exercise in voyeurism, only to ratchet the tension inexorably to a dramatic climax – Francois battling lust and sexual frustration with violent self-loathing.

ipassion and poetry clash with apartheid and censorship in this true story of South Africa’s political poet of the 1960’s – Ingrid Jonker.

Often referred to as South Africa’s Sylvia Plath, Ingrid Jonker was an intense and captivating personality, fiercely critical of the apartheid government in which her father served as Chief Censor. Writer Greg Latter focuses the story on the complex relationship of father and daughter and on the passionate affair that Jonker had with fellow writer Jack Cope. Director Paula van der Oest beautifully recreates the look and feel of 1960s Cape Town where Jonker lived her life at a furious pace, scrawling her moving poetry on the walls of her room. LIFE, ABOVE ALL

2010/35mm/100 minutes

South Africa’s entry to the Academy Awards, this moving drama follows a 12-year-old girl battling to save her family and best friend from prejudice.

Chanda is a resilient young girl who lives in a shabby township outside Johannesburg. When her newborn sister dies and her mother sinks into depression, Chanda starts to take control of her family’s survival, facing the future with an unnerving dry-eyed stoicism. Set against the backdrop of an AIDS-ravaged community, director Oliver Schmitz creates a moving character-driven story that exposes many of the taboos of a community poisoned by gossip and ignorance. And, despite the weighty subject matter, the film is propelled by a positive force — mainly due to the remarkable performances of its two young leading actors.

CAN'T STOP THE MUSIC

A celebration of song and dance with outdoor screenings of classic favourites, new documentaries about music legends and a little bit of sex & drugs & rock & roll.

Dress up and come join us at the National Film & Sound Archive for some toe-tapping fun.

Dust off your boot skates and dress like the 80s for the cult roller-disco musical fantasy starring Olivia Newton-John.

Post-Grease, Olivia Newton-John was set to become a star in her own right as a muse who makes dreams come true. Ailing wannabee entrepreneur Sonny Malone (Michael Beck, dubbed over by Cliff Richard in the singing scenes) wants to open the roller disco of his dreams. The duo is helped along the way by businessman Danny McGuire, played by Gene Kelly in his final feature film, who injects some 40s jazz and swing into the outfit. The 40s and the 80s then collide to make the coolest roller disco in movie history.

That was the plan anyway. At the time of its release, the film’s claim to fame was a hit soundtrack (featuring Electric Light Orchestra, Cliff, Gene and Olivia) and being the co-inspiration with the Village People film for the anti-Oscar Awards, the Razzies. Time has been kind and Xanadu is now the cult hit it was destined to become.

‘It’s nice to be a lunatic’ wrote Ian Drury, and Andy Serkis shows just how in this pulsing biopic of the charismatic and acid-tongued singer.

Suffering from polio, rock legend Ian Drury had a difficult childhood – partly paralysed and wearing callipers to help him walk. The experience isolated him and shaped both his determined personality and his piercing observations of a world that cared little for his affliction. Director Matt Whitecross creates a vibrant, pulsing biopic of a man who was equal parts witty and cruel – but above all a charismatic figure in the English music scene. This fascinating documentary charts the extraordinary career of Harry Belafonte – not only as talented performer – but as a driving force of social activism.

How much can one good man fit into a lifetime? From winning Tony awards and starring with Hollywood legends, Belafonte has also always been at the leading edge of political activism, perhaps since his infamous duet with Petula Clarke on television in 1968 when she touched his arm, causing a national scandal. Susanne Rostock’s fascinating documentary gets close and deep to the man with the smooth voice – who mingled with John F Kennedy, Martin Luther King, Marlon Brando and Nelson Mandela.

CARMEN JONES

This famous adaptation of the Broadway hit version of Bizet’s opera shifts the story to the Korean War and made stars of Harry Belafonte and Dorothy Dandridge.

With an all-African-American cast and re-visioned as a steamy fable of a deadly affair between a North Carolina parachute factory worker and US Airforce trainee, producer/director Otto Preminger’s take on Bizet was unsurprisingly hard to fund in mid-1950s Hollywood. But the real battles proved to be with the censors who warned of the script’s ‘over-emphasis on lustfulness’. Carmen Jones was – and is still – a milestone, and would bring Dorothy Dandridge to stardom after 15 years of bit parts and African-American segregated market B-movies. Future FOOTLOOSE director Herbert Ross’s dance moves struck a new relationship between camera and choreography, and fresh Broadway star Harry Belafonte joined an all-star line-up that included Brock Peters, Pearl Bailey and Diahann Carroll.

Not only is Chad Morgan still alive at 83, he’s turning out hit songs and touring the country to take them to his fans.

Chad Morgan has lost count of the number of times he’s been reported dead. A star as a teenager, when he appeared on Australia’s Amateur Hour radio show in 1952, his toothy grin has been a feature on the country music circuit for more than 50 years. Filmmaker Janine Hosking takes a look back at the man who had a wild reputation for womanising and heavy drinking, and shows plenty of Chad still doing what he does best – taking his irreverent songs to the people. Tex Perkins narrates this very surprising tale of an Australian legend.

CAN’T STOP THE MUSIC

1980/35mm/124mins

SPECIAL OUTDOOR SCREENING

Dress up and celebrate the 80s with this legendary, over-the-top musical starring The Village People and some of their biggest hits.

In this pseudo-biography of The Village People, Jack (played by Steve Guttenberg who would go on to define his career in a string of Police Academy films) is a struggling composer desperate to gain fame with his songs. All he needs is a group, and with the help of his roommate Samantha and a lawyer named Ron, he manages to recruit six ‘macho men’ from his Greenwich Village neighbourhood. The rest is Village People history …

Meant to be a celebration of the disco era, the film was released too late to catch the craze and flopped spectacularly at the box-office (everywhere except Australia that is – where the album also topped the music charts). The film then went on to win the first ever Golden Razzie award for Worst Film, and has become a cult classic ever since.

Doors open at 7.00 PM for a sunset start. Special ticket prices: FILM ONLY or FILM + SNACKBOX.

This important Australian film is a hard-hitting taste of life in a remote Aboriginal community, as seen through the eyes of a 10-year-old boy.

Daniel lives in remote Toomelah, with more interest in becoming a little gangster than going to school. As he drifts through his broken community with scant attention from his separated parents, he finds himself attached to a gang of petty criminals. When they have to take on a rival who has just returned from gaol, Daniel sees a chance to prove himself. Filmmaker Ivan Sen writes, directs, shoots and edits this film — allowing him to capture an intense intimacy and a powerful sense of realism, topped with an outstanding performance from young Daniel Connors in the lead.

THE GIANTS

A bittersweet delight laced with some wonderful humour, this film sees three boys grow up fast as they search for freedom and a little bit of weed.

Zak and Seth have been abandoned by their mother in the country house of their grandfather, who recently died. Completely broke but with time on their hands, they join forces with friend Dany and decide to explore their new-found freedom, pushing their naivety and innocence to the limits, especially when they decide to buy some dope from a local drug dealer. The wonderfully composed performances from the three young leads are matched by stunning widescreen cinematography.

Two sisters clash at a wedding party as a huge planet threatens to destroy the earth.

Always controversial, director Lars Von Trier turns his hand to science fiction drama in this apocalyptic study of how individuals respond differently to impending doom. Opening with a highly stylised vision of how the world might end, Von Trier then takes us to a lush wedding where melancholic Justine (Kirsten Dunst) clashes with her highly strung sister as a rogue planet looms in the sky. Enigmatic, moody and visionary – it’s another unforgettable Von Trier experience.

A taut, slow-burning thriller about inheritance, morality and class differences in contemporary Russia.

Heralded as a masterpiece from award-winning Russian director Andrei Zvyagintsev (THE RETURN), this film is both a moody thriller and a damning social commentary on the state of Russian society. Elena is a middle-aged woman married to an older wealthy man whom she met when she nursed him in hospital. More housekeeper than wife, Elena shuffles between her opulent apartment and her unemployed son’s dire living conditions, and is forced to choose between her family and the man she depends upon.

This comic Finnish road movie with Russians, reindeer and rip-roaring blizzards, sees one man on a desperate mission to buy a set-top box so his girlfriend can watch Titanic.

Unemployed Janne lives in remote Northern Lapland, spending his time with his slacker friends and out of touch with the needs of his girlfriend Inari. When she delivers an ultimatum to bring home a digital set-top box by dawn the next day, so that they can share a romantic evening together, Janne sets out for the nearest town. What should be an easy task turns into a crazy, life-changing escapade as Janne and his friends are slowed down by mad Russian reindeer hunters, the Swedish women’s underwater rugby team and a bone-biting blizzard.

The film will be introduced by the director, with a Q&A session at the screening on Friday 4 November 6.00 PM.

Narrated by a cat, this whimsical comedy explores modern relationships and the difficulties of accepting responsibilities.

Blending whimsy, magical realism and the dread of growing up, filmmaker Miranda July has created an utterly unique movie full of warmth and a quirky sensibility. About to adopt a cat called Paw-Paw (who narrates the story), 30-something couple Sophie and Jason are caught between the desire to make something of their life (‘I should be a world leader by now’ says Jason) and a fear of responsibility that keeps them on the couch. Philosophical, funny and finding depth in the mundane – it’s the most original movie you’ll see all year.

This riotous coming of age story stars John Cleese as a tipsy English master trying to help a sensitive boy get through his first year at an elite South African boarding school.

Based on a hugely popular book, this film follows the misadventures of scrawny John Milton (known as ‘Spud’ because of his pre-pubescent state) who finds himself in a boarding school dormitory known as “The Crazy 8”, with a reputation for mischief. As apartheid collapses around them and the boys deal with their isolation from the opposite sex, Spud is the only one to pass his English exam. This brings him to the attention of ‘The Guv’ (John Cleese) who decides to act as Spud’s mentor in matters of literature, love and life.

In this warm and quirky comedy from Iceland, Oscar and Lara seem perfectly normal. He runs a haunted house business in the basement, and she speaks to elves.

Spiritually orientated mother of two Lara seems to have a sixth sense and the ability to communicate to the dead, thanks to an ancient elf-stone in the garden of the rundown family house. But when her hapless husband Oskar – who gives tacky haunted-house tours through their home – decides to sell the elf-stone to a German art-dealer, everything begins to go wrong for the couple and their teenage children.

Delightful performances and a sharply written script make this rare independent Icelandic movie a charming treat – and perhaps a metaphor for the problems faced by Iceland with the global financial meltdown!

Canberra documentary filmmaker Rob Nugent takes a fascinating and poetic look at the troubled relationship between man and locust.

Since the dawn of time human civilisation has been at war with the locust, and filmmaker Rob Nugent embarks on a personal and deeply thoughtful journey from central Australia to Africa and Europe, exploring the ancient stories that surround this small green insect. Shot in extreme close-up and with frightening magnification, the locust becomes an ancient enemy, competing across the world with humans for food and survival. Nugent’s stunning cinematography – both widescreen and extreme close-up – adds to the lyrical nature of this powerful enquiry into nature and control.

Two filmmakers spend six months in Afghanistan with a group of young soldiers and capture the complex psychological and moral realities of war.

Opening with the soldiers’ departure from their regimental depot and farewells from family and friends at the airport, we are transported with the hopeful, youthful group of men to a NATO base called Armadillo in the Helmand Province of Afghanistan. It’s a dusty, mostly monotonous job that involves trekking into the ‘green zone’ where the Taliban operate amongst mud-walled villages – danger always present. Filmed with breathtaking clarity by cameraman Lars Skree, the film’s observations of what happens in war raise inevitable and eternal questions about the morality of sending young men into battle with instructions to kill the enemy.

Art comes to life in this utterly unique and visually stunning depiction of the story behind one of Pieter Bruegel’s most famous paintings.

In 1564 Flemish artist Pieter Bruegel the Elder painted ‘The Procession To Calvary’, filling the canvas with the details of both Christ’s crucifixion and the brutalisation of his homeland by occupying Spanish forces. With an astonishing and playfully experimental approach, legendary Polish filmmaker Lech Majewski transforms the painting into a moving image, combining live-action and blue-screen cinematography to create the look and feel of a living, breathing Bruegel masterpiece on the big screen. With a cast that includes Rutger Hauer, Michael York and Charlotte Rampling, Majewski explores the narrative behind the famous painting – unravelling both its religious symbolism and the politics behind the paint.

THE BLACK POWER MIXTAPE (1967–75)
2011/digital cinema/100mins

Using extraordinary footage shot by Swedish journalists in the era before spin, this groundbreaking film follows the rise of the Black Power movement in the USA.

In the 1960s and 1970s, Swedish journalists developed a fascination with the political upheavals in the USA, reporting the race riots and the clammer of voices calling for change — including charismatic figures Stokely Carmichael and Angela Davis. Their coverage of the issue was so extensive that it caused diplomatic relations between the two nations to be cut off in 1972. Nearly 40 years later, director Goran Olsson uncovered the 16mm footage in the basement of Swedish television company and instantly realised its value. Combining the archival material with a contemporary commentary and soundtrack, Olsson has created an extraordinary insight into a nation that seemed to be tearing itself apart.

The fascinating and little known story of how President Tito put celluloid to work to define the newly established nation of Yugoslavia.

Every night for 32 years President Tito, enigmatic leader of Yugoslavia, watched a movie before going to bed. He loved westerns and believed film would help him form and define the new nation that the Yugoslav Partisans created after World War II. Little known to anyone outside the country was just how important the movies were to Tito, and he built some of the finest film studios in the world and seduced many of Hollywood’s leading actors and directors to come to Belgrade. Anthony Hopkins, Kirk Douglas, Sophia Loren, Burton & Taylor, Alfred Hitchcock and Orson Welles all made it down the red-carpet of communist movie-buff Tito, and filmmaker Mila Turajlic interviews many of the old hands from the era, telling tales of opulence and wonder.

A gripping portrait of the troubled genius who caught the world’s attention over a game of chess during the height of the Cold War.

When he was only 15 Bobby Fischer became one of the most dominant forces in world chess, becoming the youngest ever Grandmaster and a candidate for World Chess Champion. Yet his life never seemed to be the same after his famous encounter with Russian player Boris Spasky, in Reykjavik in 1972. This fascinating documentary traces his life from his earliest days as the brilliant son of idealistic Polish-Jewish parents to his last days living as a mysterious ‘stateless alien’ far from public view – with much of his life and reputation caught up in the propaganda of Cold War politics.

Screenings at Sundance, Edinburgh, London and Moscow Film Festivals

“A riveting documentary” Peter Bradshaw, Guardian

“This film could be six times as long and still have you on the edge of your seat.” Charlotte O’Sullivan, London Evening Standard

As much about the human condition as it is about horses, this is the incredible true story of Buck Brannaman – the inspiration behind The Horse Whisperer.

A rodeo star as a child, Buck Brannaman is in huge demand as a man who knows a thing or two about horses. Yet he maintains what he really does is ‘help horses with people problems’. Filmmaker Cindy Meehl follows Buck as he tours the country with his famous horse clinics, slowly drawing out of him the touching story of his past and letting us witness some of the wisdom he passes on to people who think they have a problem with their animal. Long time friend Robert Redford – who sought Buck’s help when he made a film version of the Horse Whisperer – adds some fond insights in this film that’s made for more than just the horse crowd.

Screenings at Sundance, Melbourne International Film festival, Silverdocs, Hotdocs.

“it turns out to be about much more than horses, as it uncovers its subject’s complicated and thorny past” Nick Anderson, The Wall Street Journal

“Buck sees himself through the animals’ eyes and feels their childlike skittishness, their primal fear.” David Edelstein, New York Magazine

You’ll be desperate to eat sushi after watching this incredible portrait of the 85-year-old sushi master who’s still not quite ready to hand his restaurant over to his two sons.

Jiro Ono runs the only sushi restaurant in the world that has a 3-star Michelin rating. He has been in the business since he was a teenager, driven by a fanatical devotion to the craft of creating the perfect mouthful. Filmmaker David Gelb takes us inside the kitchen where the dedication and years of repetitive hard work are revealed, including interviews with Jiro’s two sons – now in their fifties – who have been waiting patiently for the chance to step into their father’s shoes. There’s also plenty of footage from the customers’ side of the restaurant (which only seats 10 people) – with the results of Jiro’s special brand of perfectionism – a mouth-watering treat.

Screenings at Tribeca and Monterey Film Festivals

“An intrinsically compelling hymn to craftsmanship and taste.” Leslie Felperin, Variety

On a unbelievable quest for redemption, a ruthless warlord renounces his violent past and reinvents himself as an evangelical preacher.

Joshua Milton Blahyi killed more than a few people as the leader of a violent gang during Liberia’s atrocious civil war that raged across the small African nation for 14 years. Dubbed General Butt Naked and believing himself to have supernatural powers, he fought — alongside his ‘butt-naked’ soldiers — with nothing but an AK47 and a pair of shoes, responsible for the massacre of thousands of innocent people. Once the war had ended, filmmakers Eric Strauss and Daniele Anastasion followed the man for five years as he found religion, visited the relatives of those he had killed, and searched his soul for some kind of forgiveness.

Screenings at Sundance, Hot Docs, Silver Docs and Melbourne Film Festivals

“A compelling portrait of an extraordinarily complex personal odyssey”
Kenneth Turan, Los Angeles Times

“Staggeringly cinematic.” David D’Arcy, SCREEN INTERNATIONAL

FACE-TO-FACE

“Sometimes the human doesn’t have what they need to help the horse. It all comes from the horse. And being real, it’s not always going to be fuzzy and warm. Sometimes there’s going to be trouble and struggles, but that’s true in all relationships.”

DEATH OF A SOLDIER
Australia/1986/93 mins

The 2011 Ken G Hall Award recognises producer David Hannay for his support and advocacy of archival film needs over more than 40 years.

One of Australia’s film production elders, he has assisted the NFSA in saving master materials from productions in danger of complete destruction. He has worked actively with the NFSA to locate and preserve original film components and lobbied on behalf of archival interests, both in Australia and abroad. David remains an energetic producer, mentor and lobbyist, working to support and preserve 21st century filmmaking in its many forms.

David will speak about the importance of film archiving and introduce his film DEATH OF A SOLDIER. Starring James Coburn, Bill Hunter and Reb Brown, it combines elements of thriller and political intrigue drawn from a true story of World War II.

The two main storylines look at the increasing madness of soldier Leonski as he murders a string of women in Melbourne and the complex bureaucratic mechanism of investigation and punishment set in train by the American Army. It becomes an often tense clash between the American and Australian bureaucracies.
